

David van Niekerk is CEO of the Johannesburg Inner City Partnership. He leads a team that manages a portfolio of Inner City projects and stakeholder partnerships with Inner City voluntary management initiatives, the City of Joburg, the property sector and civil society.

He is a founding director of the Gauteng Precinct Management Association.

He was Head of the Neighbourhood Development Programme at National Treasury between 2011 and 2018, where he established the SA Precinct Management Initiative (SAPMI), that is putting in place national urban management policy and legislation with national stakeholders from the urban management and property sectors, as well as national and local government.

He has been involved in urban, socio-economic and strategic planning & development and urban management in the public and private sectors since 1989.

He holds a B.Sc. (City Planning) and a M.Sc. (Real Estate) with distinction from the University of Pretoria.